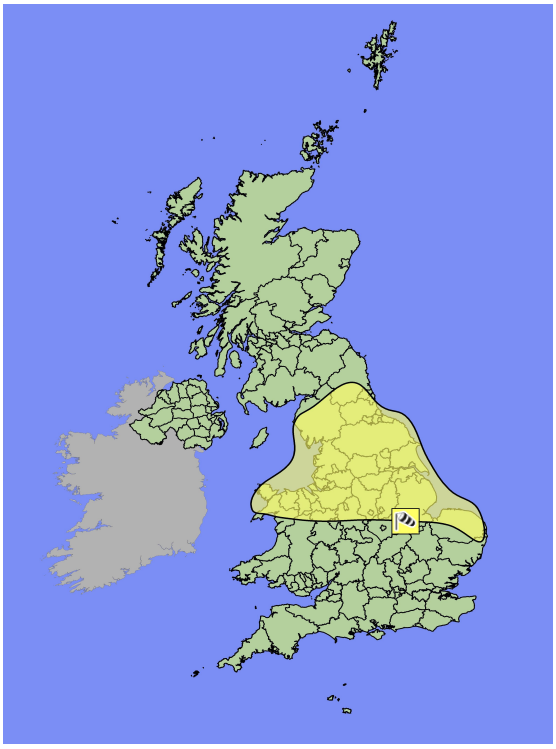
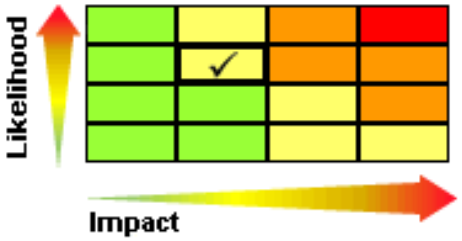
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A strengthening westerly wind is bringing squally showers today. Frequent gusts of 40-50mph are likely, perhaps locally 60mph or more, particularly over exposed coasts and hills.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 09:00 on Wed, 30th Jan 2013 until 18:00 on Wed, 30th Jan 2013

Winds increasing through today to become very gusty, particularly near heavy showers. The public should be aware that there is the potential for some minor disruption to travel, particularly for high-sided vehicles.

This is an update to the warning issued yesterday to transfer the whole area northwards, to include much of northern England and remove the risk of significant disruption from southern England and South Wales.
